One drop of this sexual attractant will have women BEGGING for you to take them home!

Dear Friend,

I want you to understand that I don't normally "field test" a product unless I'm totally convinced it will work as advertised. And rarely do I ever share my experiences on such a personal matter.

I decided to make myself the "guinea pig" for one night and see if this... really works!

But the idea that a simple scent would drive a woman uncontrollably to the point that they crave someone of the opposite sex...seemed impossible and unbelievable!

This is no joke. Our researchers have come up with a sexual attractant called PherOmen 505, and they are claiming it will make you irresistible to women...and I'm not just talking about any woman...but beautiful and sexy women!

After hearing this...I was convinced they were all NUTS!

So I planned to give it my "best shot" to prove them wrong! I decided to make myself the "guinea pig" for one night and see if this magic cologne really works!

First...I must let you know that I'm not a "player" nor do I have women swarming all around me. Actually it's quite the contrary. I'm the type of guy who walks into a room crowded with women and not a single head would turn.

But that doesn't mean I don't try to sell myself to the opposite sex. Pickup lines are practiced...clothing is carefully chosen...grooming never stops.

Yet nothing happens.

Over, please

Recently science has found that the answer has been under our noses all along

It's like legal Spanish Fly!

It was a typical Thursday night out with the guys. We always go to the same club, where there's always a crowd of especially attractive women. The only thing different on this night is I secretly sprayed myself with a few hits of PherOmen 505.

We took our standard seats at the bar. We ordered our drinks and sat facing out towards the crowd. I was feeling kind of special. It was like I had a secret...sort of an advantage over my competition.

Then all of a sudden it happened!

This amazing blonde walked right by me and smiled. I said hello and she stopped. I mean she just literally came to a complete halt.

She asked me if I was having any fun. That was an understatement. This woman was incredibly drop—dead gorgeous.

I'm referring to "model material", who easily deserves a 9+++.

What really amazed me was how easily the conversation was flowing out of my mouth.

The more time she spent with me, the better she seemed to like me. The pinnacle of truth to this strange occurrence came when she put her arms around me and whispered into my ear, "You are the sexiest guy here".

Hands down...I knew it had to be happening because of PherOmen 505. There's no other explanation.

Neuroscience has proven the efficacy of pheromones!

First, for centuries humans have been attempting to find the perfect aphrodisiac. Some potion that would make one an object of desire, easily reciprocated by another with love or passion.

Recently science has found that the answer has been under, or rather, within, our noses all along. This perfect aphrodisiac is pheromones, such as those ingredients found in products like PherOmen 505.

Pheromones are chemicals that are secreted in our sweat —

If you use pheromones, you are likely to have MORE sexual encounters... than those who ignore the scientific evidence and other bodily fluids — and are used to signal a variety of sexual related messages. Neuroscientists have known for a very long time that other animals use their own pheromones to signal to one another, particularly if reproduction is the topic.

Until recently, it was thought that pheromones did not play a significant role in human interaction.

It's very important to remember that our own bodies are producing pheromones naturally (except we bathe them down the drain). They are the perfect aphrodisiacs because they relax the wearer and the one being pursued.

And they do it subconsciously.

Wearing PherOmen 505 returns you to a pre—sterile world full of the animal drive and sexual intensity that you should be experiencing naturally.

The bottom line is this: falling in love, animal lust, seduction, attraction, and lovemaking have a lot more to do with subconsciously detected chemicals called pheromones than you think.

If you use pheromones, you are more likely to have more sexual encounters, and more pleasurable sexual experiences, than those who ignore the scientific evidence.

Now you can be absolutely irresistible to the opposite sex!

You are probably shaking your head in amazement...or doubt. I can frankly say I never thought it would work either. But the “proof is in the pudding”... you need to try this remarkable sexual attractant for yourself.

PherOmen 505 is one of the most effective human pheromone colognes available today. Not only does this sexual attractant contain the correct amounts of pheromone compounds but also contains other potent ingredients and fragrances.

This is one reason why no one else has been able to duplicate it.

I'm so sure your social life — and sex life — is going to have a remarkable change, that I'm going to give you a guarantee to
